Your Organization Without and With ESC

Without ESC

With ESC

Email

Heavy reliance on email makes the quest for inbox zero a near impossible feat.

Use activity streams and document sharing instead of long email chains.

Employees

Employees across offices and departments rarely have the time or opportunity to connect and learn about each other's interests, expertise, etc.

By setting up profiles, employees can make their interests and knowledge public.

Document Management

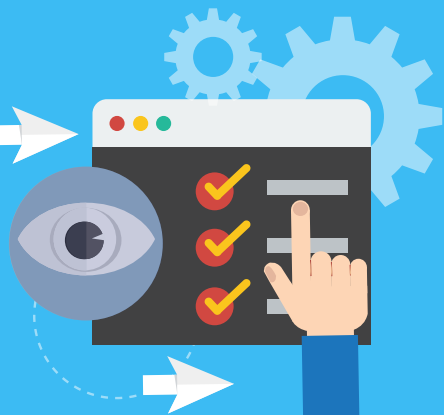

Figuring out if you're working on the right version of a document and not overwriting another employee's work limits productivity.

Live updates to documents in an ESC network show who updated it and when.

Integration

Employees use multiple technology platforms throughout a typical day – but they don't work cohesively, ultimately creating inefficiencies.

Using an out-of-the-box ESC tool built on Microsoft SharePoint or a similar platform allows for seamless integration within other business-critical tools.

Information Access

Most workplaces lock down information between departments, due to fears around information disclosure, privacy.

Admin controls ensure that announcements can be shared across departments and offices securely.

Convenience

If you're out of the office and need to access something quickly, all bets are off.

Access everything you need anytime, anywhere, from any device.
